INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this report is to present in concise form some of the most frequently requested tables of data from the 1980 Census of Population and Housing and to establish a mechanism for data comparison between areas. The figures for the tables were taken from Summary Tape File 3, the first 1980 Census tape released which contains tabulations from the long-form questionnaire.

For purposes of this report, geographical areas that are often specified by data users were chosen as the basis of presentation. Areas summarized include the United States, the four Census Regions (Northeast, South, North Central and West), the fifty states, the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSA's)[1] in North Carolina (as well as the non-metropolitan remainder of the State), all 100 counties in North Carolina, and the eighteen multi-county planning regions[2] in the State. Users should consult the maps on pages 2 and 3 for Census Regions and for North Carolina SMSA and multi-county planning region boundaries. In addition to the summary tables, all areas are ranked according to thirteen key items of interest to a wide range of data users. Rankings for these thirteen items are highlighted on pages 4 through 7.

The information in this report was compiled after corrections were made to previously released 1979 income figures. As a result, there will be some variation between figures appearing in this report and overstated income figures appearing in both the Summary Characteristics for Governmental Units and Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (PHC80-3-35) and the Advanced Estimates of Social, Economic and Housing Characteristics (PHC80-S2-35) publications. Median income for families with white and black householders was calculated using a straight line interpolation on data and income categories from Summary Tape File 3. Data published in the General Social and Economic Characteristics will provide more accurate estimates for these medians. In addition, all medians for the multi-county planning regions were calculated using a straight line interpolation method. Since no summaries will be published by the United States Census Bureau for multi-county planning regions, these figures serve as the best available estimates.

The data items and geographical areas chosen for this report are a small subset of the total available from Summary Tape File 3. Users who require additional data or other levels of geography should contact the nearest Affiliate State Data Center in their area.

[1] As of June 30, 1983, the Federal Office of Management and Budget changed the definitions of the Metropolitan Statistical Areas. Summaries in this report do not reflect these changes and are comparable to SMSA totals published from the 1980 Census of Population and Housing.

[2] In 1969, North Carolina was geographically divided into seventeen (later changed to eighteen) multi-county regions for the purpose of coordinating planning and development in these areas. The factors influencing the formation of the regions included the degree of social and economic interrelationships of the urban centers and their surrounding area, the existing cooperative programs among counties and municipalities, the population and number of counties comprising each region, and the natural geographical boundaries that might separate contiguous regions. Since the formation of these planning regions, these areas have provided a structure for analyzing broad geographical changes which have been occurring across North Carolina.

HIGHLIGHTS

SUMMARY STATISTICS FOR SELECTED AREAS: 1980 Census of Population and Housing

From the selected population and housing data presented in this report, thirteen statistics of general interest to a broad spectrum of users were calculated and ranked across states, North Carolina SMSA's, planning regions, and counties. Some of the results are highlighted as follows.

FARM STATUS

While over half of North Carolina's population is considered rural, many of the state's rural residents do not reside on farms. North Carolina ranks sixth among states and is twice the national figure in the percentage of population classified as rural; yet, it ranks 27 in the percentage of total rural population comprised by farm residents (according to the 1980 Census definition of "farm"). North Carolina is below the national average of 9.4 percent, with only 6.2 percent of rural individuals being farm residents. However, the percent of total state population that is rural-farm is larger than the percentage rural-farm for the nation. Thus, North Carolina has a relatively large proportion of farm residents out of its entire population, but a rather small proportion out of the rural population base, when compared with the nation. Both situations are partially due to the fact that, nationally, the population is more urban than in North Carolina.

The four states with the highest proportion of their rural population living on farms are in the West North Central Division of the nation, and the four with the lowest such proportions are New England states except for Alaska, which has the lowest proportion of all.

Regions K and M stand out in their high percentage of "farm" in the rural population, while Region E has the lowest such percentage. Countywise, Stokes is the county with, relatively, more farm residents in rural areas and Dare has the least.

RENT

North Carolina's median monthly gross rent is $38 lower than the national median of $243, yielding a rank of 42 among the 50 states in this measure. Highest rent is charged in Alaska ($368) and lowest in Mississippi ($180).

Median gross rent in North Carolina is highest in Region J ($235) and lowest in Region K ($158). Warren county definitely has the lowest rent ($122) and Dare the highest ($256), but Orange and Wake are almost as high as Dare ($253 and $251, respectively).

NO TELEPHONE

More North Carolinians than United States residents in general are without a telephone. Of all households in the state, 11.0 percent lack phone service, while nationally the rate is 7.1 percent. In Alaska and Mississippi, about 1 in 6 households lacks a telephone.

Of the state planning regions, Region N showed a considerably higher rate of households without a telephone, with more than 1 in every 5 households telephoneless.

In Hoke county the situation of being without phone service is most severe; more than 1 out of every 4 households lack a telephone. Wake has the lowest incidence among all North Carolina counties of the absence of a telephone, it being absent in about 1 out of every 20 households.

INCOME MEASURES

Household Income. Median household income for 1979 was $16,841 for the United States and $14,481 for North Carolina, which ranked seven states from the lowest in this measure. As with rent, Alaska had the highest median household income ($25,414) and Mississippi the lowest ($12,096).

Only two North Carolina counties, Wake and Mecklenburg, exceeded the national household income statistic. Five counties recorded median household income below $10,000: Madison, Cherokee, Hyde, Bertie and Swain.

Family Income. The relationships among family income for various levels of geography were very similar to those for household income. Ashe county is included along with Cherokee, Madison, Hyde and Swain in the five North Carolina counties with lowest family income and Bertie is seventh from the lowest.

POVERTY

Families in Poverty. Ranking twelfth nationally in the percentage of its families living in poverty, North Carolina had 183,146 "poor" families in 1979, or 11.6 percent of all families. The state poverty rate for families in 1969 was 16.3 percent. Nationally, the number of families in poverty decreased from 10.7 percent to 9.6 percent between 1969 and 1979. The four states with the highest proportion of poor families in 1979 were the southern contiguous states of Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and Arkansas. Wyoming had the lowest proportion with only 5.8 percent of its families living in poverty.

In Halifax county, exactly one fourth of all families were poor, and twelve other counties had a poverty incidence rate in excess of 1 in every 5 families. Catawba and Chatham counties had the lowest incidence of poverty in families at rates of 6.2 and 6.4 percent, respectively.

Region-wise, poverty was, relatively, most rampant among families in Region N and least prevalent in Region E.

Females in Poverty. In all areas -- the Nation, states; North Carolina planning regions, SMSA's and counties -- the poverty rate for families with a female householder, no husband present, is much higher than the rate for all families. The rate of poverty in families with a female head and no husband present is roughly the same for the state and the nation at 31.6 percent and 30.3 percent, respectively. These rates range from a low of 18.6 percent in Nevada to a high of 43.6 percent in Mississippi.

Over half of all families with a female head and with no husband present are in poverty in Perquimans and Chowan counties and this rate is closely approached in Halifax county.

LABOR FORCE

Male Labor Force. The percentage of all civilian males 16 years old or older that were in the labor force was exactly the same for North Carolina as for the United States, at 74.7 percent. This measure of the male labor force participation rate ranged from a high of 82.7 percent in Wyoming to a low of 66.3 percent in Florida.

Among North Carolina's counties, the male labor force participation rate varied between 57.9 percent in Clay county and 82.2 percent in Mecklenburg county.

Female Labor Force. Approximately one half (49.8 percent) of American civilian women 16 years old and older were in the labor force in 1980, while for North Carolina almost 54 percent (53.8 percent) of this group were in the labor force. Indeed, North Carolina ranks eighth among states in the female labor force participation rate. The top ranking state was Nevada at 59.9 percent. This is in stark contrast to West Virginia, where only 36.5 percent of civilian females 16 and over were labor force participants.

Female labor force participation rates varied widely among the 100 counties of the state from a low of 36.2 percent in Camden county to 63.4 percent in Catawba county. Fifty-five North Carolina counties evidenced female labor force participation rates that were higher than the national rate.

Women in Labor Force, with Children. North Carolina has proportionally more "working mothers" than the United States or any other state. Nationally, 55.3 percent of civilian women 16 and over who have children are in the labor force. In North Carolina, the analogous statistic was 65.3 percent, giving the state a first rank among all states in this measure. West Virginia had the lowest percentage of "working mothers" at 39.4 percent.

Catawba county reported 76.7 percent of its mothers as being in the labor force, as opposed to the other extreme of Onslow, which reported 46.7 percent.

Workers in County of Residence. In North Carolina, workers are slightly more apt to work in their county of residence than is the case for workers nationally. For the United States, 79.2 percent work in their home county, while for North Carolina the rate is 81.5 percent. The most out-of-home-county-commmuting takes place in Virginia, where fewer than half of all workers work in their county of residence. The smallest rate of out commuting occurs in Arizona (96.8 percent work in home county).

Camden county workers leave home to work in another county the most frequently, at the rate of 69.6 of every 100 workers, while Dare county workers commute out of the county for work at the rate of only 3.6 out of every 100 workers. In only ten North Carolina counties do more workers leave the county boundaries for work, than remain inside.

EDUCATION

High School Graduates. North Carolina citizens over age 24 are considerably less well-educated than their counterparts nationwide. In the state, 54.8 percent of the population aged 25 or older are high school graduates. The national rate is 66.5 percent. North Carolina is tied with Mississippi among the 50 states in this statistic; only South Carolina and Kentucky rank lower.

In 64 North Carolina counties, fewer than half the residents over age 24 are high school graduates.

Private Schools. Private school enrollment constitutes a smaller proportion of total school enrollment in North Carolina than is the case for the nation as a whole. While 13.4 percent of all persons in the United States aged 3 or over who are enrolled in school are enrolled in a private school, the comparable figure for North Carolina is only 8.3 percent. Delaware has the highest rate of private school enrollment (20.8 percent) and Wyoming the lowest (5.0 percent). North Carolina ranks 38 among the 50 states in this statistic.

For the North Carolina counties, the rate of private school enrollment ranges from 0.8 percent in Alleghany county to 15.8 percent in Mecklenburg county, which, along with Forsyth and Durham, are the only North Carolina counties with rates exceeding the national rate of private school enrollment.

FOOTNOTES

Footnotes refer to numbers in parentheses on summary tables.
The letter "S" indicates suppressed data.

(1) The civilian labor force is made up of employed and unemployed civilians.

(2) The farm population is defined as persons living in rural territory on places from which $1,000 or more of farm products were sold in 1979. In 1970, the definition included all rural places with sales of $250 or more, plus rural places of 10 or more acres with sales of $50 to $249.

(10) A "child of householder" includes any son, daughter, stepchild, or adopted child of the householder. An "own child of householder" is a never-married child under 18 years of age who is a son, daughter, stepchild, or adopted child of the householder. "Related children" include not only own children but also all other family members, regardless of marital status, who are under 18 years old, except the householder or spouse. Foster children are included in the "nonrelative" category.

In subfamilies an "own child" is a never-married child under 18 years of age who is a son, daughter, stepchild, or adopted child of a mother in a mother-child subfamily, a father in a father-child subfamily, or either spouse in a married-couple subfamily.

Tables in this report show totals for "related children."

(11) Tabulations for households and families are classified by the race and Spanish origin of the householder.

(23) Tabulations of poverty status exclude inmates of institutions, persons in military group quarters and in college dormitories, and unrelated individuals under 15 years. (See footnote 54.)

(25) "Units in structure" includes "a mobile home or trailer," "a one-family house detached from any other house," "a one-family house attached to one or more houses," "a building for 2 families," "a building for 3 or 4 families," "a building for 5 to 9 families," "a building for 10 to 19 families," "a building for 20 to 49 families," "a building for 50 or more families," "a boat, tent, van, etc." Tabulations of "mobile home or trailer, etc." include "a mobile home or trailer," and "a boat, tent, van, etc."

(29) Gross rent and contract rent are tabulated for all "renter-occupied units except one-family homes on a property of 10 or more acres. Units tabulated in the "no cash rent" category also exclude one-family homes on 10 or more acres. A unit classified as "no cash rent" in contract rent will remain no cash rent in the gross rent distribution even if the unit's occupants pay for utilities themselves. Gross rent is the sum of contract rent and utility costs. Rent asked is tabulated for "vacant-for-rent" units except one-family homes on 10 or more acres.

(33) The noncondominium value and selected monthly owner costs distributions are restricted to certain kinds of "owner-occupied" or "vacant-for-sale only" units. The following are excluded from the tabulations on value for noncondominium units:

A. Units at an address with two or more units.
B. Units on 10 or more acres.
C. Units with a commercial establishment or medical office on the property.
D. Mobile homes or trailers.

(50) Each sample person and housing unit was assigned a weight as the result of a complex ratio estimation procedure. Sample housing units were assigned one weight each and sample persons were assigned two types of weights. The first weight for persons applies to sample data except place of work, travel time to work, and migration (i.e., residence in 1975) tabulations; this weight was assigned to all sample persons. The second weight for persons, which applies to place of work, travel time to work, and migration data, was assigned to those sample persons who were included in the place of work and migration coding operation. These weights vary from person to person and from housing unit to housing unit, but on the average they are approximately equal to the inverse of each records sample selection probability. The tabulations in this file are based on summing the weights of the appropriate persons or housing units relating to the tabulation. For specified aggregates, the characteristic data are multiplied by the weight; for example, in aggregate income for persons, the amount of income is multiplied by the weight. In medians, the weights are brought to bear indirectly through the distribution used to calculate the measure. For family and household tabulations (population type), only the weights of the householder are used. For subfamily tabulations, the weights used are for those assigned to the subfamily reference person (i.e., the person who is the equivalent of a householder for the subfamily).

(54) "Unrelated individuals" include nonrelatives in family households, persons in nonfamily households, and noninmates in group quarters.

POVERTY STATUS IN 1979. Families and unrelated individuals are classified as above or below the poverty level by comparing their total 1979 income to an income cutoff or "poverty threshold." The income cutoffs vary by family size, number of children, and age of the family householder or unrelated individual. Figure 1, page 62, shows the poverty thresholds used to determine poverty status.

The urban population comprises all persons living in urbanized areas and in places of 2,500 or more inhabitants outside urbanized areas. The rural population includes everyone else. URBANIZED AREA. A population concentration of at least 50,000 inhabitants, generally consisting of a central city and the surrounding, closely settled, contiguous territory (suburbs). The criteria define a boundary based primarily on a

YEAR-ROUND HOUSING UNITS. All occupied units plus vacant units intended for year-round use, excluding vacant units held for seasonal use or migratory labor.
